2015 Science Exhibition

Mini Makers Fair

Wednesday April 8th

6-7pm

Don't forget! The students of BVS will be showing off their STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) projects next Wednesday night. The students have been hard at work creating and refining designs, models and prototypes of all sorts.

Middle school students will be required to stand in front of their own device and information board for the first 15 minutes. This will allow you to ask the makers any questions you may have about their creations or the process. The process of this project was just as important as the final product itself. Come see and interact with the creative, intelligent and talented makers of Benson Village School.

Rodney Batschelet our technology guru, will be on hand with an interactive display table. Give 3D printing a try!
